

FUTURAMA

What does the future look like?

We need to alter our view to approach larger nonlinear contexts rather than reducing issues to a single concept

How to explain the emergence of life?
Our urge to give form to what seems chaotic

Tiny changes causing a chain of events leading to large scale phenomena

Our perpetual de-struction and re-construction of self and reality

How do we deal with an incrementally complex society?
How do we extend our reach across national boundaries and cultures?

Leaders need new mental models to manage complexity, defy uncertainty, handle ambiguity across generations, across the planet.

Futurama cuts all this in one event
